

Regardless of one's political affiliations this attempt to influence voters just prior to the election give them a power to which they are not entitled. Waiting until the damage is done is not acceptable. They must be reminded of their responsibility as people who are using public airwaves.